Quality Policy

One of the most important challenges in outsourcing is maintaining quality parameters. We take this very seriously, adapts and implements quality standards at every stage of the software development cycle.

Below are some of the points that we take into account:

- Detailed requirement documentation, along with mock-ups.
- Test cases for each business use case.
- Break complex requirements into simple and short tasks.
- Automated and Peer code reviews.
- Peer testing.
- Multiple rounds of integration and regression testing.
- Performance and security testing.
- Continuous client demos.

We perform all client services with utmost honesty, loyalty, and decency.

We also ensure that every solution is delivered because our goal is to be reliable and scalable.

ZERO DEFECT

DELIVERIES / 15 MINUTE CHALLENGE

We have a ritual at Mobify where our development team likes to give challenges to the QA team. To find a defect in the code functionality within 15 minutes, they would be treated for lunch.

Now, this confidence is only possible, when there is no scope of doubts, and the commitment to the job has been duly obliged. The job is not simple at all, it takes a great deal of hard work to produce the desired results, to this we are proud of our development team for breaking the conventions and always delivering better than anticipated.

QUALITY CHECKS AND PROCESS

We focus not only on business functionality implementation, but we make sure that the code written is optimized, clean, and maintainable. To make sure of this we have various processes in place:

- Static Code Analysis by developers while writing the code and making sure there are no errors and warnings and the code is following industry standards.
- Demo to QA team to make sure that the code is as per functional requirements. This helps in avoiding major issues during integration testing.
- CI/CD implementation with continuous testing.

And many more.....

ENGAGEMENT MODEL

At Mobify, our engagement model for our services is flexible enough to adhere to different customer requirements.

For our clients, we are a trusted technology partner. You can speak with us confidentially and our conversations will always have the best interest of you and your business at its core.

Our relationship with clients is a true partnership that we expect to be mutually beneficial.

WORK CULTURE

At Mobify, healthy learning is the most significant part of our work culture. We are proud to have a fast-paced growth environment.

We love honing our employees with new technologies and domain expertise and then ultimately make them tech professionals.

Client satisfaction is our most important USP, and therefore following the client focussed approach we burn our midnight oil to make our client successful. Owing to that our clients treat us not as service providers but as their partners.

During the pandemic, because of our supreme commitment, our team delivered the expected results to our various clients. Even in the COVID pandemic, we were part of a few companies where hiring never stopped rather doubled.

We love experimenting with our culture. Our employees are directly involved with transforming the culture in the company. In essence, the culture at Mobify is a blend of agile management and autonomy.
